BUTT TRUMPETS

a game

I have seen horsemen breaking camp. I have seen the beginning of the assault, the march and muster, and at times the retreat and riot. I have been where chargers trampled your land, O Aretines!

I have seen the columns of foragers, shocks of tourney and running of tilts. I have seen the endless lines march to bells, drums, trumpets, from far and near.

I have seen them march on signals from a castle.

*I have seen them march with native and foreign gear.
But never yet have I seen horse or foot,
nor ship in range of land nor sight of star,
take its direction from so low a toot.*

Dante Alighieri, The Inferno, Canto XXII
as rendered by John Ciardi, 1954

TRUMP LIKENESS USED WITHOUT PERMISSION FOR SATIRICAL PURPOSE

One bright, beautiful winter's day early in 2017, a clamoring throng of Donald Trumpses came to town.

how to play

Play with your friends. You're all Donald Trumpses. Choose who goes first then take turns around the circle. When it's your turn, choose one of the things on the other side. Duplicates are fine. Read it out loud. When it's somebody else's turn, answer them by saying "ME ME ME" for YES, or by saying nothing for NO. Pass this card around. If you get tired of waiting for your turn, just go ahead now. When you're done playing, fall silent and put your head in your hands. Pretty soon everyone else will too, and then the game's over. Nobody wins.
